This magnificent one-hundred year old mosaic is featured in the dome of the Wisconsin state capitol building. It features Lady Liberty pointing toward heaven with one hand (because heaven is the source and inspiration for our liberty), and with her other hand she is protecting the ballot box (because that is how we protect our liberty).

The image succinctly captures the essence of the problem with our elections, illustrating why we are steadily losing our liberty: we are no longer protecting the ballot box.

The Seven Steps

The Seven Steps are a proven roadmap for success in the first phase of your local battle for local empowerment so that you can take back your elections. The Steps organize wisdom from successful active grassroots teams around the country. We encourage you to engage a serious process that yields powerful evidence in the short term while building a lasting foundation for long-term reform.

Step 1. Get Connected

To make a significant difference, please don't go it alone. Time is short, and there are too many lessons to learn. Avail yourself of the experiences and resources that other patriots are willing to share so that you can avoid the common pitfalls.

Step 2. Get Organized

Start by assembling a small local team of selfless, like-minded patriots who believe strongly in the team objectives. You need at least seven core people: a team leader, data person, promoter, recruiter, researcher, strategist, and archivist. Meet together in person to strategize and begin developing a local plan.

Step 3. Formulate a Plan

Every local situation has nuances that can be exploited. Starting local, identify which officials are likely to be supportive and which will oppose your efforts. Acquire election data, research your state and local laws, and begin developing relationships with key local officials. Get training from other patriots already engaged in this national effort.

Step 4. Implement the Plan

Hold regular meetings, analyze data, and begin testing neighborhood canvassing strategies. Continue researching official records, laws, and affidavits. Plan and promote monthly events to report progress and create public awareness.

Key Concepts

- You need unassailable evidence of election fraud in order to build a credible local movement.
- Building a local movement capable of empowering citizens requires a small team of committed patriots.
- There is no silver-bullet; it requires a long-term commitment.
- Don't go it alone! Get advice, training, and coaching from other experienced patriots.

Step 5. Build the Movement

Success in this effort begins with unassailable evidence of local fraud obtained by your team. That evidence allows you to build a credible local movement. You won't win this battle with mere evidence; you need your citizens to engage the movement. You are not going to relinquish control of your effort to any court or any official. This is your investigation; you are fulfilling your government role as our constitution intended.

Step 6. Review Progress

Once you have collected a significant amount of unassailable evidence of election fraud (typically one-hundred cases), then you are ready to have your progress and strategies reviewed by others in the national movement so you can proceed to the last step.

Step 7. Local Empowerment

Obtaining official validation of your credible evidence accelerates the growth of your movement and empowers local citizens to demand reform from their elected officials.

Only a virtuous people are capable of freedom. — Benjamin Franklin

What's Wrong with Our Elections?

Our country was established upon the principles that We the People are the sovereigns, that we would be religious and virtuous, and that we would govern ourselves accordingly. We would regularly select representatives of high moral character from amongst ourselves to operate a limited government protecting our God-given rights. Our founders gave us a Republic — if we can keep it.

For many decades, our culture has grown increasingly depraved and apathetic, relegating some of our most critical civic responsibilities to others. We now pay others to run our governments, teach our children, and operate our elections. The consequences are obvious, since centralized political power grows stronger and more corrupt.

For 200 years, citizens operated our elections locally at the precinct level, where the integrity of every ballot could be maintained. We completed our elections in a single day, almost entirely in-person with photo ID, hand-counting of ballots, and auditable reporting. Today, our elections are centrally controlled and no longer transparent or auditable. Citizens no longer trust the election process.

The Bible is for the Government of the People, by the People, and for the People. — John Wycliffe

ELECTION FRAUD HOW BAD IS IT?

Election expert Dr. Douglas Frank tells The New American how he discovered the extent of election fraud in the United States, and offers solutions for regaining election integrity.

in 1996, and has since done extensive consulting, inventing, and technical manufacturing, building electronic microscopes, laser scanners, and precision manufacturing and control devices. In December of 2020, he put aside his businesses to devote his full-time effort to election-fraud/election-integrity issues. Since then, he has traveled to hundreds of counties, meeting with state and local officials (secretaries of state, attorneys general, state legislators, county commissioners, and county clerks), speaking to thousands of concerned citizens, and organizing grassroots election-integrity efforts. As such, he is one of the few election experts to possess not only the technical ability to assess the challenges of our digital elections and machine voting, but also the experiential knowledge that only comes from extensive, recent "boots on the ground" interaction with voters and public officials. In view of the upcoming 2024 election year, Dr. Frank, who is a speaker for The John Birch Society's Speakers Bureau, recently sat down for an interview with The New American to discuss the current state of election-integrity efforts.

The Freedom Index rates members of congress based on their adherence to constitutional principles of limited government, fiscal responsibility, national sovereignty, and a traditional foreign policy of avoiding foreign entanglements.
